“The Vegas Legends Show” consists of more than just a troupe of talented impersonators. Audiences who have flocked to see this show over the past four years have gone home shaking their heads at the remarkable resemblances, vocal likenesses and comedic portrayals of the many characters during this blockbuster show.

Kerry James, whose impersonations of Liza Minnelli, Bette Midler, Tina Turner, Marilyn Monroe and other Vegas Legends have been described as "just freakish" by the media, has toured Europe and the UK, and has performed on some of the world's most prestigious cruise lines. Kerry has also worked alongside some of the biggest names in show business.

Daniel Gold's penchant for impersonating International comedians is amazing. Switching from Austin Powers to Dean Martin to Jerry Lewis at push of a button, then transforming into the King of rock 'n' roll, Elvis Presley...ish???, and crooning his way into hearts with a tribute to the “Chairman of the Board” Frankie Sinatra.

All characters are portrayed in a comedic way combined with costumes that can only be seen to believe “The Vegas Legends Show” is musically exciting, raucously funny and even sometimes a little crazy.

This is definitely a show not to be missed.
